Structural Considerations in Stationary Models of Gas Transport

R. Gollmer[1], R. Schultz[2], and C. Stangl[3]

Abstract: Detecting feasibility of transportation orders (nominations) in gas networks is a problem of growing practical interest and leads to challenging mathematical questions. The talk adresses some structural properties of the constraints modeling the sets of admissible points.

[1,2,3] Optimization and Discrete Mathematics
Department of Mathematics
University of Duisburg-Essen
Forsthausweg 2, 47057 Duisburg, Germany claudia.stangl@uni-due.de